An ECBACO (English Cricket Board Association of Cricket Officials) Level 1 Umpire's course will be held on the two days of Sunday 18th March and Sunday 25th March 2012 at Bishop's Stortford Cricket Club, Cricketfield Lane, Bishop's Stortford, Herts. Each day will begin at 10 a.m. and will end at approximately 6.00 p.m. The training officer in charge will be Keith Woods of the Essex Umpires and Scorers Association assisted by David Marsh of the Cambs. & Hunts. Umpires & Scorers Association.

The cost of the course is £30 per candidate. This cost will include an individual work book, a copy of the laws of cricket and free membership of the ECBACO for one year and also includes the fee for the ECB ACO examination for those participants who wish to take the exam after the course. Attendees should bring their own lunch on each day. There will be an examination for the ECB ACO level 1 qualification after the course which we hope that all attendees will wish to take at the end of the second day. Attendees will need to have a current CRB clearance although the course tutors can assist with the appropriate application for this.

The form should be accompanied by a cheque for £30 made out to the West Essex District Cricket Board. The closing date for enrolment will be 1st. February, 2012 in order to ensure that the course books are ordered in good time before the course takes place. Please note that space on the course is expected to be limited so it will be "first come first served". Please telephone David Marsh on 07768 886891 if there are any questions.
